The San Angelo office had one phone call asking about getting an Election Certificate. The caller was from an Angelo State University professor wanting to apply for one to show his class. He was told he did not qualify because he has a valid DL.

The Northwestern office had one call. The unidentified male caller asked what was required and was given the information as well as the DPS web site for an additional resource. Through the conversation it was determined that he did not qualify because he had a valid ID.
